Benbrook Seniors Find Fresh Space for Fun & Fellowship at City Hall

The cards are shuffled, the tiles are stacked and laughter fills the room at Benbrook's newly built City Hall.

Senior residents are gathering in a refreshed space designed just for them, turning the area into a lively hub of connection and community. Recent meetups featured spirited games of bridge and canasta, with tables full and friendly competition in full swing.

But the activities don't stop there.

Each week, seniors come together for a variety of events, including tai chi, chair yoga, dominoes, mah jong and monthly birthday celebrations. The new space provides a welcoming setting for both longtime participants and newcomers looking to get involved.

City leaders say the goal is simple: create a place where seniors can stay active, build friendships and enjoy meaningful fellowship close to home.

All seniors in the Benbrook community are invited to participate in the weekly gatherings and special events. For many attendees, it's more than just a game, it's a chance to stay engaged and be part of something special. (photos continued on page 4)

BMHS Girls Golf Takes Second at Centennial Tournament, Bobcats' Historic Basketball Season Ends

The Benbrook Middle-High School girls golf team battled windy conditions to earn a second-place team finish Saturday, Feb. 28, at the Burlison Centennial Tournament.

Leading the way for Benbrook were Avery Glanzer and Campbell Glanzer, who claimed first and second place individual honors, respectively. The strong individual performances propelled the Lady Cats to a runner-up finish against a competitive field.

The tournament marks another highlight for the Lady Cats as they continue spring competition.

The season came to an end for the Benbrook boy's basketball team in the bi-district round against Krum last week, coach Blake Mendez said he knew it would be a tall order.

"We knew Krum was going to be a juggernaut, but we came in with a lot of confidence," Mendez (continued on page 3)

said. "Going into the locker room down just 6 at half, we were feeling good and knew we deserved to be on the floor with them. Coming out in the third, Krum got hot from the three and we couldn't keep pace. They are a great team and had a deep bench. We threw a haymaker but ran out of gas late. I couldn't be more proud of our fight throughout."

Mendez said one player in particular stood out in the game for the Bobcats.

"There aren't enough words I could say about Brennan Barton to come out in a play-off game and score 32 against a top 10 team in the state when they're doing everything they can to stop you is impressive," Mendez said.

Reflecting on the season as a whole, Mendez said

"We're disappointed," Mendez said.

"We were hunting gold balls this season and that didn't play out. Injuries hit us at a bad time, but that's no excuses. Eventually we will look back and still be proud of this season. We had the best season in school history. But we know we left some meat on the bone."

On the pitch, Benbrook defeated Western Hills by a score of 9-1 on Friday, and Benbrook coach Kristen Martinez said, "The team performed well against Western Hills. We knew their #8 (Samantha Jupiter) would be back, and she wasn't there the first time we played them, so we knew that would be a challenge. They high pressured/pressed us and tried to breakthrough a few times, but we remained calm, scoring 5 goals the first half. We scored 2 more the second half before #8 was eventually able to breakthrough our defense and score a goal, making it 7-1."

Martinez said she had a few strong performances in the game against Western Hills.

"Jessica Anzaldua stood out as one of our center midfielders in the game last night," Martinez said on Saturday. "She played a key role in winning 50/50 balls and distributing to her teammates to start the attack. She also had two goals. The Chavez sisters continue to dominate play, with Sydney recording three goals and two assists and Lily scoring two goals and two assists."

Benbrook and Western Hills are both teams ranked among the top four in the district 7-4A standings, which adds to the rivalry between the two Benbrook programs.

"I love rivalry games," Martinez said. "I love the atmosphere and the excitement. I think the girls also feel a responsibility to 'protect our house' when it comes to playing Western Hills. It's an all-around exciting experience for the fans and players."

As the post-season nears, Martinez is feeling confident about Benbrook's chances.

"The team is playing well as we approach playoffs," Martinez said. "We finally have everyone back from sickness and injury. We will use these last few district games to fine tune a few things and get ready for our tune-up game versus Burleson on March 16."

American Legion Post 297 Serves Up Food, Fun and Fundraising Weekend

Great food and great music filled the hall at American Legion Post 297 last weekend as community members turned out for two nights of fellowship and fundraising.

The Post kicked off the weekend Friday with chili and karaoke, drawing patrons ready to enjoy a warm meal and take their turn at the microphone. Laughter and applause echoed through the facility as singers entertained the crowd.

The momentum continued Saturday with a spaghetti dinner and another round of karaoke, this time with a mission: raising funds to send four local girls to Texas Girls State.

Proceeds from the event will help cover the cost of camp, giving the students an opportunity to participate in the leadership and civics program designed to educate young women about government and public service. Post 297 regularly hosts events that bring residents together while supporting local initiatives, and last weekend was no exception.

Howard Gibson, Carolyn Fredriksson, Sibylle Saade, Joseph Saad and Margo Saade enjoyed a night out!

Jeannie and Leon Anderson enjoyed the amazing food.

Districts Make the Difference Video Contest Open to High School Students

U.S. high school students looking for a creative way to earn scholarship money this spring are invited to participate in the Districts Make the Difference Student Video Contest, a national competition that blends creativity with civic education. The contest, now open for entries, asks students in grades 9-12 to produce a short, fun and informative video illustrating how special districts benefit their communities.

Organized by the National Special Districts Coalition and hosted on the Districts Make the Difference website, the annual contest was originally created in California and expanded nationwide in 2022 so students from every state can participate. Entries are being accepted now through March 31, 2026.

Special districts are independent, local government entities that provide essential services not always offered by cities or counties. These can include water provision, fire protection, parks and recreation, libraries, mosquito control, and more, the types of services that touch residents' daily lives often without broad public awareness.

Scholarships Without Essays

Participants are asked to submit a video no longer than 60 seconds that highlights the theme "How Special Districts Make the Difference" in their community. Videos are judged on four criteria: accuracy and effectiveness, creativity and originality, production quality and entertainment value.

"What makes this scholarship unique is that it doesn't rely on essays, GPA or financial need," said an organizer with the National Special Districts Coalition. "All you need is imagination and a camera."

The top ten videos selected by a panel of judges will be posted on the Districts Make the Difference site and open to a nationwide public vote between May 1 and May 15, 2026. The public vote will determine the top three scholarship winners.

Cash Prizes and Teacher Awards

The grand prize winner will receive a $2,000 scholarship, with $1,000 for second place and $500 for third place. In addition, each winning student's teacher will receive a $500 award to support classroom technology or civics education.

The addition of a prize for teachers reflects the contest's broader goal of strengthening civic awareness and community engagement in local government, an area of study that many students rarely encounter in the classroom.

How to Enter

Students interested in entering the contest should visit the official Districts Make the Difference video contest page for full rules and entry instructions. They will need to create their video, typically using a smartphone or other recording device, and submit it through the online portal.

Contest organizers also provide ideas and suggestions for video topics, including:

- Showcasing a unique program or service provided by a local special district.
- Explaining how a special district affects daily life in a community.
- Interviewing a district employee or resident about their experiences.
- Describing what a special district is and how it works.

Because the contest is national, entries might highlight services as diverse as water treatment and fire protection to parks, transit systems or library initiatives, all examples of how special districts make a measurable difference in communities.

Benefits Beyond Money

Officials with the campaign and past participants say the contest offers benefits beyond the scholarship itself. Students gain real-world experience in storytelling, media production and research. They also have an opportunity to explore roles in local government and gain a deeper appreciation for civic infrastructure that often goes unnoticed.

In recent years, submissions have come from students in more than 30 states, reflecting both the diversity of special district services and the creative approaches students take in presenting them. Organizers hope to expand that reach even further this year, with the goal of receiving entries from every state.

Deadline Approaching

Students planning to enter should begin work soon, with the contest deadline set for March 31. Finalists will be announced in early May ahead of the voting period. Winners will be revealed shortly after the voting window closes, with scholarship funds awarded later this spring.

For more information and to submit an entry, visit the Districts Make the Difference official contest website at www.districtsmake-the-difference.org/video-contest.

The General Edward H. Tarrant Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, has had a busy and rewarding week. Eight members attended the 123rd Annual State Council on February 20-21, 2026 in Temple, Texas, where they received numerous awards. Both days were filled with business sessions, reenactments of several 1812 era women, and a memorial service for those members who had passed in 2025. Chapter members Lisa Kight-Alcala and Linda Simmons were installed to the new state board.

Members were honored to have as their special guest, National President Cheryl “Cher” Sesma, of California. Mrs. Sesma was gifted several Texas themed gifts, including a red, white and blue cowboy hat. She reported on her national goals, which are to increase and maintain membership, promote patriotic education, and to award a new N.S.U.S.D. 1812 Scholarship. State President Kellie Mathieu reported that Texas members were very generous and donated a large dollar amount to this new scholarship.

The U.S. Daughters of 1812 is a non-profit, non-political service organization and lineage society. Its programs promote patriotism and preserving authentic records of men in civil, military, and naval service from 1784-1815 inclusive. For information on how to find your ancestors or about its programs, please email lineagesocieties@att.net. Prospective members are always welcome.

Five members of the Honorable Philip Livingston Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists attended the Texas Society State Assembly on February 13-14 in Temple, Texas. Both days were filled with business sessions and learning. Chapter members Colleen Petosa and Lorie Williams serve on the State Board.

Members were honored to have Mary Raye Casper attend as the honored guest and keynote speaker at their banquet. Mrs. Casper informed about her National President’s Project, which is to help fund educational projects, new historical signage, and the creation of a new visitors’ introductory video at Fort Raleigh National Historic Site. Members gifted her with over $2300 for the project.

State Regent Ginny Carter also informed about her state project, which is to raise funds for Fisher House. Fisher House Foundation builds comfort homes where military and veteran families can stay free of charge, while a loved one is in the hospital. These homes are located at military and VA medical centers around the world. Since inception, the program has saved military and veterans’ families an estimated $610 million in out-of-pocket costs for lodging and transportation.

The National Society Daughters of the American Colonists is a non-profit, non-political service organization and lineage society. The object of the society is to research and preserve the history and deeds of American colonists and commemorate deeds of colonial interest. The chapter’s goals are the same and to provide an annual scholarship, contribute to veteran services, and to provide JROTC and ROTC medals to outstanding students at TCU and the Fort Worth ISD. ## From Franklin's Legacy to Texas Liberty: The Remarkable Journey of Richard Bache, Jr.

When the United States became independent in 1776, Texas was far from the scene. However, one of the key figures of that era, Benjamin Franklin, still had an impact on Texas and its own independence decades later. Richard Bache, Jr., Franklin's grandson, fought in the Texas Revolution, served in the Texas navy, and served in the first sessions of the Texas State Senate.

Richard Bache, Jr., was born in Philadelphia in 1784. His father, Richard Bache, Sr., was the second postmaster general of the United States, following Benjamin Franklin in the position and serving in the midst of the American Revolution from 1776 to 1782. He had married Franklin's only daughter, Sarah, several years earlier and had eight children with her.

As a child, Bache had gotten to know his famous grandfather, who died in Philadelphia in 1790. His brothers and cousins achieved varying degrees of fame and success as engineers and publishers, following in their famous grandfather's footsteps in one way or another. In 1798, he watched his older brother, Benjamin Franklin Bache, run afoul of the notorious Alien and Sedition Acts when his newspaper, the Aurora, printed articles critical of President John Adams. Unfortunately, he died before the case went to trial.

Bache attended Philadelphia schools and eventually enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania. He graduated in 1812 just before the War of 1812 erupted. Once this new war with Great Britain erupted, he organized a volunteer artillery unit. The Philadelphia-based Franklin Flying Artillery earned acclaim during the war, with Bache serving as captain. He also briefly served in the navy.

After the war ended, he served as postmaster of Philadelphia, serving from 1815 to 1828. It was this same position that his grandfather occupied from 1737 to 1753, making Bache part of the third generation in his family to serve as a postal executive.

Because of his family's reputation, Bache maintained close connections with politicians across Pennsylvania. In 1805, he married Sophia Dallas, the daughter of United States Attorney Alexander Dallas. Alexander Dallas rose to become Secretary of the Treasury under President James Madison in 1814, while his son George, the namesake for the present-day City of Dallas, became vice-president under President James K. Polk in 1845. The Baches' marriage produced nine children.

In 1832, Bache fled to Texas under a cloud of suspicion, leaving his family behind. The reasons were never clear. Some biographers suggested he fled debt collectors while others point to whispers of accusations that embezzlement had occurred at the Philadelphia post office during his tenure as postmaster. However, no charges of any illegal activity were ever filed.

He settled in the Brazoria area near modern-day Houston.

When the Texas Revolution reached Southeast Texas in spring 1836, Bache joined the Louisiana Independent Volunteers to continue the fight. He was part of the San Jacinto campaign in April 1836 when Mexican Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna was captured in the aftermath. Gen. Sam Houston made him part of the group of soldiers guarding Santa Anna in the aftermath.

Under the administration of Texas President Mirabeau B. Lamar, the Texas navy was re-established. In 1838, Bache served as chief clerk for the new navy. With the purchase of the steamship Zavala, Bache dusted off his experience from the United States Navy and served Texas on the high seas on the new vessel.

In 1842, he moved to Galveston to serve as commissioner of the navy yard and as customs collector. Shortly afterward, he was elected a justice of the peace, a small-claims court judge, for Galveston County.

By 1845, the question of annexation to the United States again emerged. Many people in the United States and Texas alike were excited about the prospect of the merger. Bache was selected as a delegate to the Annexation Convention. However, Bache was in the minority and voted against annexation; but his reasons were more personal than political. As his grandfather had a falling out with his own parents and his own son throughout his life, Bache periodically would find himself at odds with members of his own family. After his brother-in-law, George Dallas, became vice-president, Bache soured on the idea of annexation because he did not want to give him a political victory.

Nevertheless, Bache was a delegate at the state constitutional convention and helped craft the first state constitution in 1845. He was also elected to the first session of the new Texas State Senate, representing the Galveston area. He continued to serve in the senate until his sudden death three years later.

His children went on to lead impressive lives of their own. His eldest son, Alexander Bache, was a noted scientist and led what later became known as the U.S. Geodetic Survey.

Three of his daughters married men who had considerable achievements. One son-in-law, William Irwin of Pennsylvania, went on to serve in Congress, while another, Robert Walker, became Secretary of the Treasury while a third, Gen. William Emory, was a noted surveyor along the border between Mexico and the United States.

Bache died in Austin in 1848 at age 64.
