From the Sports Desk with John Loven

Lions Drop Home Game to Eagles

It was a district boys basketball game for Castleberry High School. The game was originally scheduled to be played on Tuesday, Jan. 31 but had to be moved to Saturday, Feb. 4 due to inclement weather.

The Lions were hoping to move up from their current fifth place spot in the district standings. They entered the game one game behind Lake Worth for fourth place (which is the final spot to make the state playoffs). But they were facing a very tough squad from Decatur, who currently was sitting in third place and had just come off a big win against first place Krum. Despite leading midway through the first quarter, the Lions could not keep pace with the Eagles and lost 76-50.

The opening quarter began with Decatur grabbing a quick 3-0 lead on a bucket and a free throw. Sophomore Everitt Arellano (#12) scored the Lions first bucket two minutes into the game. After Decatur responded quickly with another basket, senior Amin Ba-Ahmad (#23) pulled CHS back within one point. Things looked good when senior Miguel Huerta put the Lions in the lead 7-5 after he drained a 3 pointer at the 4:38 mark of the first quarter. Unfortunately for CHS, that would be their only lead of the game. Decatur promptly closed the quarter on an 11-0 run to take a 16-7 lead at the end of the quarter.

The second quarter initially stayed somewhat close. When Ba-Ahmad (#23) hit a bucket at the 5:31 mark he pulled the Lions to within 6 points (trailing 20-14). But from this point on the Eagles got red hot, especially from the 3-point line. They closed out the second quarter on a 20-5 run. Fifteen of those 20 points came on 3-pointers, nailing the last one of the quarter just before the buzzer. This gave the Eagles a 40-19 at halftime.

Decatur extended their lead in the third quarter. After having made their last four 3-point attempts to (continued on page 3) end the second quarter, they nailed their first two 3-pointers of the third quarter (this made them six for six on 3-pointers in just over a 6-minute span).

Senior Eddie Hernandez (#1) hit back-to-back 3-pointers to end the third quarter for the Lions. But the only other bucket of the entire quarter came from sophomore Michael Ramirez (#2).

Meanwhile the Eagles just kept rolling and their lead ballooned to 30 points (57-27) going into the final quarter.

The Lions fourth quarter was actually their best of the game. They almost equaled their total of the first three quarters (27) in the final quarter (23). The Lions got hot from the 3-point line, hitting five of nine attempts.

Hernandez (#1) had a fantastic fourth quarter, where he scored 13 points (on four 3-pointers and a foul shot).

Castleberry outscored Decatur 23-19 in the last quarter but the deficit was far to great to overcome. The Lions fell by the final score of 76-50.

The Lions box score was as follows: Hernandez (24 points), Ba-Ahmad (11 points), Huerta (5 points), Ramirez (4 points), sophomore Demetrius Valadez, #3, (3 points), Arellano (2 points), and senior Jadyn Westman, #5 (1 point).

The Lions travel to then to Krum on Feb. 10. They will return home on Feb. 14 to face Bridgeport.

Spice Up Superbowl Sunday with Mouthwatering Recipes

It's Superbowl time and there's only one thing to make game day a bigger win: delicious game day food!

Looking to add some kick to kick-off? Whether you're tailgating or hosting from home, Frank's RedHot Original Cayenne Pepper Hot Sauce, made with a premium blend of aged cayenne peppers, is a must-have ingredient.

Classic Buffalo Chicken Wings

If you're someone who agrees that no tailgate or watch party is complete without wings, you're in good company. According to Chef Jordan Carfagno of Frank's RedHot, chicken wings are the brand's most searched recipe during football season. Anyone looking to kick their wings up a notch can try this mouthwatering recipe for a classic take on wings, and it can be made in the oven at home, or in an air fryer if you're tailgating.

Ingredients:

- 1/3 cup butter, melted
- 1/2 cup Frank's RedHot Original Cayenne Pepper Hot Sauce
- 2 and 1/2 pounds chicken wing pieces

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Mix butter and RedHot Sauce in medium bowl; set aside.
2. Arrange wings on large foil-lined pan. Bake on lowest oven rack for 30 minutes or until crispy, turning once.
3. Toss wings in sauce mixture until well coated. Serve with blue cheese and celery, if desired.

Buffalo Chicken Dip

Chef Carfagno says dip recipes are gaining popularity this year, and this spicy creamy Buffalo chicken dip is the MVP of them all. Make it in the oven at home or plug in an instant pot or slow cooker for on-the-go prep.

Ingredients:

- 2 cups shredded cooked chicken
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cups Frank's RedHot Original Cayenne Pepper Hot Sauce
- 1/2 cup ranch dressing
- 1/2 cup blue cheese crumbles

Directions:

1. Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Mix all ingredients in a large bowl. Spoon into a shallow 1-quart baking dish.
2. Bake 20 minutes or until mixture is heated through; stir. Sprinkle with green onions, if desired, and serve with chips, crackers and cut up veggies.

Check out frankredhot.com for more game-day recipes and inspiration.

This football season, bring your A-game to your tailgate spread by adding the perfect blend of flavor and heat to classic fan favorites.

DART, TRE Survey to Gauge Demand, Meet Needs

The next phase of a regionwide transit survey will begin in early February. This time, data will be gathered from Dallas Area Rapid Transit (DART) and Trinity Railway Express riders, helping planners determine demand on the system and potential improvements. If you use one of these providers, you may be asked to participate.

Funded through a partnership between the North Central Texas Council of Governments (NCTCOG), DART, the Denton County Transportation Authority (DCTA) and Trinity Metro, this is the final phase of a regionwide transit survey that began last fall. This phase will run through Memorial Day.

The 2023 survey will operate the same as the first phase last fall, with on-to-off and questionnaire components. The two types of transit surveys will seek to determine how riders are using the expanding public transportation network and indicate what changes could be made to better accommodate the needs of the growing region.

“The regional transit travel survey began with DCTA, Trinity Metro and Arlington Via last fall and will continue in spring 2023, this time including TRE and DART, as well as its GoLink on-demand services, trolley, streetcar and shuttles,” said Arash Mirzaei, NCTCOG senior program manager, model and data development. “This voluntary survey will help the transit agencies understand how riders are using the transit system after the height of the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as provide a clear depiction of socioeconomic characteristics of transit users.

“Transit agencies can use this data to offer service enhancements to their customers both now and in the future.”

The on-to-off survey will attempt to measure demand and passenger trip patterns. Upon boarding a bus, riders will be handed cards by surveyors wearing blue vests and asked to return the cards when they disembark. On the region’s participating rail lines, passengers will simply be asked at what station they will get off.

The questionnaire survey will involve surveyors asking randomly selected passengers about their current trip and their socioeconomic characteristics. Some riders will be asked to fill out paper questionnaires instead of participating in interviews. Both survey questionnaire formats (electronic and paper) will contain the same questions.

Participation in the spring surveys is voluntary, and answers will be kept confidential. The goal is to collect data from a random sample of 10 percent of transit riders.

Dallas-Fort Worth is the fourth-largest region in the nation, with a population of approximately 8 million people. As North Texas attracts thousands of new residents each year on the way to a projected population of 11 million by 2045, transit will play a significant role in ensuring the transportation system remains reliable and continues to improve into the future.

For more information about the survey, email transitsurvey@nctcog.org or visit <https://nctcog.org/transitsurvey>.

From the Regional Transportation Council

Regional Transportation Council Meeting Feb. 9

The next business meeting of the Regional Transportation Council (RTC) will convene at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 9, on the First Floor at the North Central Texas Council of Governments (NCTCOG), located at 616 Six Flags Dr., Arlington, TX, 76011.

You may also view a livestream of the RTC meeting remotely at www.nctcog.org/video under the “live” tab.

The meeting agenda and supporting items can be accessed through the internet at NCTCOG's Transportation Department RTC home page. The address is www.nctcog.org/rtc.

The Regional Transportation Council of the North Central Texas Council of Governments has served as the Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) for regional transportation planning in the Dallas-Fort Worth area since 1974. The MPO works in cooperation with the region’s transportation providers to address the complex transportation needs of the rapidly growing metropolitan area. The Dallas-Fort Worth Metropolitan Area includes Collin, Dallas, Denton, Ellis, Hood, Hunt, Johnson, Kaufman, Parker, Rockwall, Tarrant and Wise counties. The RTC includes local elected or appointed officials from the metropolitan area and representatives from each of the area’s transportation providers. More information can be found at www.nctcog.org.

American Civil Rights Activist, Heman Marion Sweatt

by Dr. Ken Bridges

What is the cost of changing the world? For those who dare, it can everything in their life, for good or ill. Heman Sweatt put everything on the line for his bid to desegregate the University of Texas law school, an effort that changed civil rights laws forever.

Heman Marion Sweatt was born in Houston in December 1912. He was the fourth of seven children, and his parents were active and respected members of the community. His father, who had moved to Houston from Waxahachie in 1900 to work as a railroad mail clerk, encouraged his children to pursue an education. Ultimately, the six surviving children would all graduate from college. From an early age, Sweatt was idealistic and passionate about the cause of civil rights. He began attending meetings of the civil rights organization NAACP while still a youth. He attended segregated schools in Houston, as was the law at the time, and graduated high school in 1930.

He enrolled at Wiley College in Marshall and graduated with a bachelors degree in 1934. In 1936, he began teaching at a segregated school in Cleburne and even served as principal for a time. In 1937, he enrolled at the University of Michigan to study medicine. However, after a year, he returned to Houston where he worked for the post office. He married in 1940.

In 1946, he decided to go to law school, choosing the University of Texas because of its reputation. He easily met all the requirements. However, UT President Theophilus Painter consulted with Attorney General Grover Sellers about Sweatt's admission. Sellers ordered that he be rejected because of his race. Sweatt and his attorneys sued in May 1946, arguing that the state was not protecting his equal rights under law as there were no law schools for African-Americans in Texas at the time. Courts ordered a new segregated law school be opened for African-Americans (at what ultimately became Texas Southern University), but Sweatt refused.

The new law school had none of the advantages of UT and was not even accredited. Sweatt and his attorneys argued that the law school experience was more than just a building. The experience, prestige, and level of education from some of the most prominent legal minds in Texas could not be replicated. The only way he could receive an equal education was to enroll in the white law school.

In the months after his first attempt to register and the endless court hearings, Sweatt was the victim of death threats and harassment daily. Phone calls, letters, and strangers on the street poured on him like a tidal wave. The pressures grew, and the stress began taking a toll on his health and his marriage. Despite the dangers and the personal cost, he realized that too much was at stake – not just for him but for all that followed him. The fight dragged on for years.

In 1950, the Supreme Court ruled in Sweatt vs. Painter that he had the right to enroll at the UT law school. He began classes in 1950. But the pressures had been too much. His health was poor, and he missed several weeks for an operation. And he and his wife divorced.

He dropped out of the law school in 1952. However, his personal sacrifices permanently opened the law for other minority students. It also helped set the legal precedent used to overturn segregation in all public schools in the Brown vs. Board of Education case two years later.

But leaving law school and the divorce was not the end of the journey for him. Life often shows that when times seem the bleakest, a new chapter is about to begin. And so it was for Sweatt.

He moved forward, now going to Georgia where he enrolled in the Atlanta University Graduate School for Social Work, earning a masters degree by 1954. He began working for the Urban League, organizing voter registration drives and also with poverty and employment programs. Sweatt also became a professor, teaching classes at Atlanta University while working with the Urban League.

He remarried in 1963, a happy union that produced two daughters. He retired from the Urban League in 1977. He died at his home in Atlanta in 1982 at age 69.

In the years after his death, scholars and jurists began to appreciate the importance of Sweatt's stand. Today, African Americans and members of all races can enter the law school without harassment and enjoy careers in law. In 1987, the University of Texas began the Heman Sweatt Symposium in Civil Rights, an annual conference specializing in civil rights issues held in his honor. In 2005, Travis County renamed the courts building where his initial hearings took place after Sweatt. A scholarship for UT law students was also established in his memory.
