CHS Volleyball Falls to Argyle

The Castleberry High School volleyball team played at home Tuesday, Sept. 21 against Argyle. The Lady Eagles entered the game with a very good overall record of 18-10, but they were only 1-2 in district play. The Lady Lions entered the contest with a 6-15 overall record and were 0-2 in district. On this night the Lady Eagles proved to be the more talented team and won in straight sets (3-0) against the Lady Lions.

Argyle took command of game one pretty quickly. They jumped out eventually to a 21-3 lead. The Lady Lions never gave up and fought hard. They ended up scoring 6 of the last 10 points in the game. However, Argyle went on to win game one by the score of 25-9.

In the second game the Lady Eagles sprang out to an 11-0 lead. Despite some good net play by Karina Moreno (#14) and Daniela Benitez (#12) the Lady Lions could not seem to score. After an Argyle spike which sailed out of bounds the Lady Lions scored a couple more points with some good team play while Alyssa Salazar (#9) was serving. Inspired by some stellar plays by Anna Medina (#15) and Eli Mojica (#4) the Lady Lions scored 10 of the next 13 points in the game. They closed the gap and only trailed by four, 14-10. However, Argyle ran off four straight points to stretch their lead to 18-10. The Lady Lions did not recover. Despite some good plays by Michelle Gutierrez (#5) and again by Benitez the Lady Lions could only muster two more points. The Lady Eagles rolled on to a 25-12 victory in game two.

Game three began almost the same as game two. Argyle moved out to an 8-0 lead. Castleberry's Medina (#15), with a couple of well-placed shots deep to the back court, helped the Lady Lions get on the scoreboard. But the Lady Eagles were really rolling with their sets and spikes. Six of the first 11 points for Argyle came on kill spikes. Medina continued her fine play in game three as she scored two more points. One came on a dink shot at the net and the other on an excellent spike. But in the end the Lady Eagles dominant net play was too much for the Lady Lions. Argyle took game three by the score of 25-7, with 6 of their final 7 points coming on dinks at the net or kill shots.

From here the Lady Lions are on the road, at Decatur tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Texas History Minute

Congressman Hatton Sumners by Dr. Ken Bridges

Texas has produced many powerful political figures in its long history. In the 1930s, Texas had one of the most influential congressional delegations in the nation, including Sen. Morris Sheppard, the Senate Minority Whip, House Speaker John Nance Garner, and other congressmen such as future House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Wright Patman. Among those figures was Congressman Hatton Sumners of Dallas, a 34-year veteran of Congress and chairman of the House Judiciary Committee for fourteen years, helping to shape the direction of the federal judiciary.

Hatton Sumners was born in 1875 on a farm in Lincoln County, Tennessee, on the border with Alabama. His father had been a Confederate officer during the Civil War, and his parents also operated a boarding school. When he was 19, the family moved to Texas, settling in Garland, then a tiny community of just over 500 residents a few miles from Dallas.

Sumners wanted to pursue higher education and was interested in a law career. However, money was tight; and there were few alternatives at the time. He went to the Dallas city attorney, Alfred Wozencraft, and explained his plight. Impressed by Sumners, Wozencraft hired him to work at his law firm, allowing him to study the law at night and even sleep in the offices. By 1897, Sumners passed the bar exam and began his work as an attorney.

In 1900, he decided to run for Dallas County Attorney. Though only having practiced for three years, Sumners won easily and became county attorney at the age of 25. He made shutting down gambling in the county a priority, a crusade that he claimed led to his defeat in the 1902 primary. He was re-elected in 1904 and convinced the state legislature to push through a bill making running a gambling establishment a felony. He declined to run for a third term in 1906 and was named president of the state district attorney's association and spent the next few years running his own law firm.

In 1912, he was elected to Congress. He jumped into his work, quickly passing a bill to make Dallas a port of entry, easing the importation of products from abroad. Sumners was an enthusiastic supporter of the Federal Reserve Act to reform the nation's banking system. He was instrumental in bringing the regional Federal Reserve Bank to Dallas. The move solidified the position of Dallas as a major financial center in the state.

His congressional colleagues acknowledged his expertise on constitutional law and had him assigned to the House Judiciary Committee in 1919. He worked on a number of reforms to the federal judiciary, including changes to case loads and retirements. Though he supported a fair and transparent judiciary, he was often hostile to civil rights legislation, as were many southerners at the time.

Sumners became chairman of the House Judiciary Committee in 1932. As part of his committee work, he served as a House manager in the impeachment cases of three federal judges in their trials before the Senate. He also appeared as an attorney before the Supreme Court on several occasions to defend the interests of Congress in several cases.

In 1934, as President Franklin D. Roosevelt prepared to grant independence to the Philippines, Sumners wrote a constitution for the islands.

In 1946, he announced his retirement after 17 terms in Congress. He enjoyed a quiet life upon his return to Dallas. He lived on the campus of Southern Methodist University for several years while working as the Director of Research in Law and Government for the Southwestern Legal Foundation.

In 1949, he established the Hatton Sumners Foundation to offer scholarships to aspiring students and grants for researchers. He published a book outlining his ideas about government and the importance of the civic responsibilities of individuals in "The Private Citizen and His Democracy" in 1959.

He died quietly in 1962.
