Reserve Express at White Settlement Public Library

With Reserve Express, White Settlement residents can subscribe to favorite authors and automatically get placed on reserve for their new books as soon as they arrive at the library. As a Reserve Express subscriber, you'll be prioritized for new releases before other patrons, ensuring you're first in line for the latest reads!

If there are multiple subscribers for an author, the system shuffles reservations randomly each time, so everyone has a fair chance of being first in line.

The Library recently expanded the list of Reserve Express authors. If your favorite author isn't on the list yet, we'd love to hear from you! Contact us at wspubliclibrary@wstx.us, and we'll consider adding them to our Reserve Express lineup.

Here's how to subscribe to authors using Reserve Express:

1. Log in to your account at whitesettlement.biblionix.com.
2. Click "My Account" and then "Reserves/Requests."
3. Follow the instructions under the "Reserve Express" section.

Happy reading, and enjoy the convenience of getting your hands on new books faster than ever!

Lady Bears Volleyball Preview

As the Brewer volleyball team gears up for the 2024-25 season, coach Jill Barkey said her team will have their work cut out to claim one of the top four spots in district.

The Bears finished in fifth place in district 5-5A last season with an overall record of 17-15-1.

With the addition of Saginaw Chisholm Trail and Keller Fossil Ridge to an already competitive district 5 thanks to realignment, Barkey said the pathway to the post-season will be even more of a grind.

"Last year we came so close to making playoffs," Barkey said. "Adding the two new schools to our district I do think will make it even more of a challenge, but we are up for it."

The good news is that Brewer has some returning fire power from 2023-24.

The Bears get back five players in seniors Brooklynn Morelock, Nayvoni Saenz and Jaidon Pospech, and juniors Sia Caballero and Saira Terrazas, whom Barkey expects to lead the way for Brewer this coming season.

For 2024 to be fruitful, Barkey said it boils down to two things: making the playoffs and playing well.

"This is our number one goal," Barkey said. "Our district will be a battle, and we're excited to get after it."

To have a successful season, Barkey said it will take a couple of things.

"We need to be able, not just to compete with the teams in our district, but to push through to win," Barkey said. "Sometimes we fall prey to being ahead and then tightening up and can't finish. Our goal is to work through that this season."

While Brewer will face it's fair share of tough competition, Barkey said her team is ready to roll.

"Aledo will continue to be tough and I know the two new schools we added (Fossil Ridge and Chisholm Trail) will be good too," Barkey said. "But we're here to fight."

FREE ADMISSION - GROUPS WELCOME!

The parent taught program is complex and requires parents, guardians, and designees to work with multiple entities. The Driver Education Teen course consists of a minimum of 32 hours of classroom instruction, seven hours of in-car observation, seven hours of behind the wheel supervised instruction, and 30 additional hours of behind the wheel instruction.

Before beginning a parent taught course, thoroughly read all webpages to avoid unnecessary costs, delays, or invalidated training hours.

STEP 1

Eligibility and Authorization

The parent, guardian, or designee, and student must first verify their eligibility to participate in the parent taught program. The parent, guardian, or designee must then apply for authorization to conduct a driver education course.

STEP 2

Selecting a Classroom Course

You'll need to purchase the curriculum from a licensed driver education provider with the parent-taught endorsement.

The classroom instruction page will help you to choose a course, learn about methods of instruction, and provide helpful info on taking the written exam.

STEP 3

Learner License

After the student has completed sufficient classroom hours, they can apply for a learner license at the DPS driver license office. The learner license page has information on when you can apply, and what you need to bring with you.

STEP 4

Selecting a Behind the Wheel Course

If you have not done so already, you must purchase the curriculum from a licensed driver education provider with the parent taught endorsement.

STEP 5

Provisional License

After the student has completed all instructional and practice hours, they are eligible to test for a provisional license.

If the student is under 18, they must have held a valid learner's license for at least six months.

WSPD Receives ABLE Certification

The White Settlement Police Department completed all program requirements and received formal ABLE (Active Bystanderism for Law Enforcement) Agency Certification on Thursday, Aug. 15. This culminates a year and half goal to comply with all program and training requirements to receive this coveted designation. ABLE assists officers to successfully intervene to prevent harm and create a law enforcement environment that supports peer intervention.

“I want to thank the team at the Caruth Police Institute and Texas ABLE Center of Excellence at the UNT-Dallas campus for assisting our team with the training and onboarding,” said Christopher Cook, Chief of Police. “We will continue to be intentional on formal training and adopting industry best practices to uphold the public’s trust and create safer communities.”

The department received agency acceptance into the program on March 9, 2023 with the Georgetown University Law Center in Washington D.C. To fully comply with all training requirements, the department completed all mandated training over the past 18 months by sending officers to training sessions across DFW. The final sign off on training occurred on Aug. 15, 2024.

Some of the program requirements include:

- Sworn officers must receive training in the mandated ABLE curriculum.
- Commitment from White Settlement City Manager Jeffrey James on supporting the program and requirements.
- Commitment from the Chief of Police to stay in compliance with all program standards.
- Community support letter from First Baptist Church of White Settlement.
- Community support letter from Watermark Church of Fort Worth.
- Other policy commitments to reinforce the commitment to intervention techniques.

To learn more about the program standards and requirements, visit the ABLE website.

Obituary

Donna Kay Martin Sagebiel

Donna Kay Martin Sagebiel went to be with the Lord peacefully on Tuesday evening, Aug. 13, 2024.

Family and friends will gather from 5 to 7 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 23 in the Great Room at Harper & Lucas, formerly Robertson Mueller Harper, located at 1500 Eighth Ave, Fort Worth.

A Celebration of Her Life will be held at 10:30 am Saturday, Aug. 24 at Trinity Lutheran Church, 3621 Tulsa Way, with interment to follow at Greenwood Memorial Park.

Born in Fort Worth, Donna was the eldest daughter of Johnny Wayne and Eleanora Martin. She grew up in White Settlement and was baptized at St. John Lutheran Church in Detmold, Texas.

Donna graduated from Brewer High and was confirmed at Trinity Lutheran Church in Fort Worth where she married the love of her life, Gordon Frederick Sagebiel on April 8, 1967. They met at Tarleton State University where she studied nursing. They traveled to College Station where Gordon studied at Texas A&M University. Together, they had 4 children and 10 grandchildren.

Donna was known for her creative talents in decorating cakes and countless sewing projects. Donna enjoyed helping her children's pursuits in band, 4-H, FFA, and Camp Fire projects. She served her church leading Vacation Bible School, coordinating Mother Daughter Banquets, and more. Additionally, she often substitute-taught at Aledo High School. Closer to home, she encouraged her children and grandchildren to do well in school and study hard. Her favorite thing to do was spending time with family and creating her legacy of handmade gifts.

She was preceded in death by her parents and her husband of 55 years, Gordon Sagebiel.

Donna is survived by: her two sisters, Sharron and the late Bill Burt, and Bonnie and Jim Story; as well as her children, Richard and Nancy Sagebiel of Bastrop, Jason and Dr. Anna Sagebiel of Clive, IA, Rev. Jennifer and Chris Gold of Marion, and Dr. Kayla and Michael Sweet of Buda. Surviving grandchildren are: Daniel, Grace, Hannah, Rayann, Wyatt, Wayde, Zachary, Zane, Kyle and Matthew; along with numerous nieces, nephews and loving family members and friends.

Consideration of memorial contributions to Trinity Lutheran Church (Fort Worth), The American Diabetes Association or to a charity of choice is suggested.

Dispelling Common Misconceptions About Hospice Care

Hospice is intended to provide comfort and support to patients at the end of their life so that they can experience their remaining time in the best ways possible. Experts say that unfortunately, misconceptions about hospice often lead people to make uninformed decisions at a critical, complex juncture in their lives.

“There is often an idea that hospice equates to giving up. But hospice is actually about taking control,” says Paul Mastrapa, president and chief executive officer of Interim HealthCare Inc. “It’s the job of the hospice team to understand what a patient’s goals for end-of-life care are, and help them live that last trajectory of their life the way they want to.”

To help patients, their caregivers and family members, and those in the healthcare industry better understand the services and benefits hospice provides, Interim HealthCare is dispelling some of the most common misconceptions:

Myth: Hospice means giving up.

Fact: The primary goal of hospice is delivering comfort, support and specialized medical care to those ready to forgo curative treatment. Research has shown that a person who spends time on hospice has a greater quality of life at the end of their life. And while the goal is not to prolong life, there are statistics that show that hospice gives patients more time compared to patients who had the same disease trajectory and didn’t receive hospice.

Myth: Hospice is only appropriate for the last few days of life.

Fact: Hospice can actually last for months, and entering hospice sooner rather than later translates to fewer hospitalizations, better symptom relief and greater comfort.

Myth: You must give up all your medications.

Fact: While the hospice care team will make recommendations about which medications are still beneficial to a patient at their stage of illness, patients and families get the final say.

Myth: Hospice is a place.

Fact: Hospice can entail in-patient care, but more typically, services are delivered wherever a patient calls home. The nurse, social worker, spiritual care provider, aide and other members of the hospice care team meet the patient where they are, be that in a residential home, an assisted living community or in another institutional setting.

Myth: Hospice is only for patients with specific diseases.

Fact: Anyone with a life-limiting chronic disease, from congestive heart failure to pulmonary disease to Alzheimer’s, can choose hospice.

Myth: Hospice ends when the patient dies.

Fact: Hospice providers often offer support to those who have lost a loved one. In the case of Interim HealthCare, bereavement services are offered for 13 months.

Myth: Hospice work is draining.

Fact: When done right, hospice work can be extremely rewarding. Hospice care workers help patients and families find peace of mind, and reach a place of acceptance during a complicated and emotional time in their lives. Hospice workers believe in the mission of providing compassionate, patient-centric medical care and support to those at the end of their life, and they’re given a voice in the individualized care they provide.

The hospice market is the second-fastest growing healthcare segment nationwide, according to Bank of America research, which translates to a growing number of job opportunities. Hospice providers are currently recruiting candidates just starting out in their career and those looking to make a change. To learn more, visit careers.interimhealthcare.com.

For more information about hospice care services for yourself or a family member, visit <https://www.interimhealthcare.com/services/hospice/>.

“Although people don’t always feel comfortable talking about end-of-life care, having these conversations can ensure one’s final days are peaceful and fulfilling,” says Mastrapa.

Emergency App Offers Advice for a Variety of Situations

The American Red Cross Emergency App gives users instant access to safety and preparedness resources and alerts for 14 different types of emergencies in a free, easy to use mobile app.

The Red Cross app provides comprehensive information on what to do in case of hurricanes, earthquakes, floods, tornadoes, residential and forest fires among other emergencies. With the key word 'American Red Cross', users can download the emergency application for free at RedCross.org/Apps or in the Apple App Store and Google Play.

“This app gives families tips for being safe and connected in an emergency,” said Keith Rhodes, CEO, American Red Cross North Texas Region. “Because the app covers a variety of situations, the user will know what to do in the event of an emergency or disaster, regardless of where they are or type of emergency.”

The “We're Safe” or “Family Safe” feature allows the user to connect with their loved ones and instantly see if they're okay – even if that family member hasn't downloaded the emergency app on their device. If the family member or friend does not have the Red Cross emergency app, they will receive a text message asking if they are safe or not. The app also has a "I'm sure" button which allows the user to send a message to report that they are out of danger.

Here are some of the many features the app includes:

1. According to the user's preferences, the application offers more than 35 alerts based on geographic location (GPS) and pre-programmed locations – usually where family and friends live.

2. The user can activate or deactivate alerts according to their needs.

3. By means of a map, in the application, the user can locate Red Cross shelters and obtain weather reports specific to their area.

4. Users can easily change the preferences of the application and receive information in English or Spanish.

5. The Red Cross emergency app is also a source of information for incidents affecting large areas, such as landslides or snowstorms.

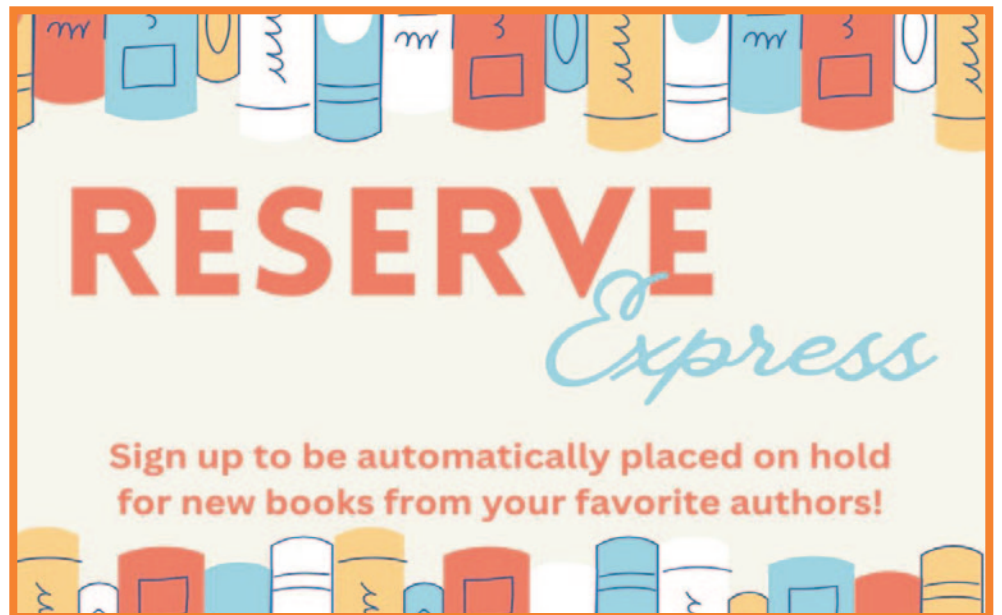

6. Its content puts the Red Cross expert guidance in your hands, anytime, anywhere – even without mobile connectivity.

7. The “Residential Fires” section offers tips on fire prevention, how to help protect yourself and your family in the event of an accident as such, the most common disaster risk in the United States.

8. With the touch of a button the user has access to the “make a plan” function, which allows him to elaborate, share and practice his disaster plan.

In addition to mobile phones and tablets, the “We're Safe” feature is also available on the Apple Watch.

Apps can help you prepare for disasters, it's important to remember that downloading our apps is not a substitute for training. For information on how to register and take a First Aid, CPR and AED class, visit RedCross.org and click “Take a Class”.

Texas History Minute, by Dr. Ken Bridges

American Billionaire Businessman, Herb Kelleher

Herb Kelleher became the face of one of Texas's most popular airlines by the 1980s. In an industry that appeared that struggled with many bankruptcies in that decade, he helped build Southwest Airlines into one of the most successful and profitable in the country.

He was born in Camden, New Jersey, in March 1931. After graduating high school in 1953, he went on to earn a bachelor's degree at Wesleyan University in Connecticut.

While attending college, he happened to meet college student Joanne Negley, a San Antonio native. The two hit it off and were soon married in 1956, a marriage that produced four children. Kelleher earned a law degree at New York University. He returned to New Jersey and briefly served as a clerk to the New Jersey Supreme Court. Soon, his wife convinced him to move to Texas, a move Kelleher for years said was the smartest decision of his life.

Kelleher had settled into a life of a prosperous attorney by early 1967 when he met with one of his clients, Texas businessman Rollin King, and the two discussed the idea of a low-cost airline that would connect the three-largest cities in the state: Dallas, Houston, and San Antonio. By operating strictly within Texas, it would avoid many of the federal regulations on airline flights, routes, and pricing. In March, the two incorporated their venture as Air Southwest and went through the process of securing funding, planes, and licensing. Soon, three other airlines challenged the fledgling company in court, arguing that it upset the delicate balance among airlines created by federal regulations. One by one, the legal challenges fell, and the rechristened Southwest Airlines was ready to go.

After almost four years locked up in court, Kelleher managed to win approval for Southwest to begin flying in June 1971. He later said that when he saw the first Southwest jet, he ran up and kissed it. Southwest boasted $20 tickets (about $154 in modern dollars), which were almost half the cost of their competition. The airline used the Boeing 737 exclusively, helping save on maintenance costs.

By 1978, the airline was expanding rapidly and Kelleher rose temporarily to CEO of the corporation, a move that was made permanent by 1981. Kelleher's quirky humor and good business sense helped propel the airline to new heights. He promoted a light-hearted approach to the corporate environment that included eye-catching and humorous ads while emphasizing customer service. "You treat your people well, and they'll treat others well," he once said. "You have to treat your employees like customers." His gift for humorous promotion made him synonymous with the airline, and it became an attitude that filled the entire company.

Southwest prided itself on being a no-frills airline. Instead of assigned seats and different classes of seating, it was entirely economy class. The airline became famous for offering food no more extravagant than a bag of peanuts while the stewardesses would often play trivia games with the passengers mid-flight.

The airline continued to grow in profitability and popularity with the flying public. As a result, he was inducted into the Texas Business Hall of Fame in 1988.

In 1992, a trademark dispute threatened to erupt into a major legal headache for Southwest. The airline had taken to using the motto "Just Plane Smart" in its advertisements. However, Stevens Aviation, a South Carolina airplane maintenance firm, took exception because it was too close to its own trademarked motto "Plane Smart." The two agreed to settle the matter with a good-natured arm wrestling match between the two CEOs. While the date of the match approached, Kelleher jokingly posed at a gym prepping for the match by lifting two bottles of whiskey with a cigarette dangling out of his mouth. Stevens CEO Kurt Herwald beat Kelleher in the highly publicized match, which proved to be a public relations bonanza for both. Kelleher made a donation to charity, and Herwald decided he would share the trademark with Southwest.

Nearing 70 in March 2001, Kelleher stepped down as CEO of the company. He continued to serve as chairman of the board of directors until his retirement in 2008. The same year, he was inducted into the National Aviation Hall of Fame.

Kelleher died in January 2019 at age 87. Today, Southwest has more than 800 aircraft and employs more than 74,000 people, making it one of the largest airlines in the country. What started as a small statewide airline now has more than 100 destinations and earns more than $23 billion each year.
