Basketball: Lady Cougars and Lady Bobcats Make Playoffs; Soccer: Bobcats Fall to Eagles, Cougars Defeat Wildcats

The Western Hills girls basketball team clinched a playoff berth as the regular season drew to a close last week, and coach Monica Gardner said it has been a year for the Lady Cougars.

"I am very proud of the girls," Gardner said. "We started the season pretty rough. They did a really good job of buying in and getting better each week. We all learned a lot, and will hopefully be able to use this as the foundation for the future. Our theme for the year has been 'Change the culture and build a legacy.'"

"I truly believe we have done that. They won three games last year and finished last in district to winning 10+ games and making the playoffs. I would say that is a good start to building their legacy."

Western Hills played Godley on Monday night after the paper had gone to press, and Gardner said she had a couple of goals for the post-season.

"I believe the playoffs give us an opportunity to see what we work so hard during the season for," Gardner said. "They get to be one of the four teams to represent the district and hopefully continue to build expectations and traditions for our program. We hope like we do each day to be better than we were the day before."

Over at Benbrook, the Lady Cats defeated Carter-Riverside by a score of 53-18 last week, and coach Leta Lofton said her team looked pretty good all the way around.

"We have worked hard and have come together as one unit, playing in harmony with one another," Lofton said. "We hope this will pay off for us in the playoffs. We played with consistency in all areas."

Benbrook played Alvarado on Tuesday after the paper had gone to press, and Lofton said her team would need to gel to have success.

"The objective for the playoff is to play as one unit," Lofton said on Saturday. "We have come to realize that even though we are a young team, there is strength in numbers. We will not be successful playing as individuals, but together there is a strong possibility of victory."

On the boy's side, Western Hills defeated Diamond Hill-Jarvis by a score of 55-41 on Friday on Senior Night, and coach Blake Dunson said his team played well early.

"We got off to a quick start and played stifling defense in the first quarter by holding the Eagles to two points," Dunson said. "They battled back in the second and third quarters to make it a 10-point game. We were able to withstand their run and pulled away in the fourth quarter to secure the win and clinch a playoff spot."

Communities Urged to Give Blood as Winter Threat Continues

The American Red Cross urges donors to give blood or platelets now to continue to strengthen the national blood supply this month.

The public can book a time to give by visiting RedCrossBlood.org, downloading the Red Cross Blood Donor App, or calling 1-800-RED CROSS.

People of all blood types and platelet donors are needed daily to ensure blood products are available for hospitals at a moment's notice.

As February continues, so does the potential for additional weather systems to disrupt blood drives and the ability to provide critical blood products to hospitals.

While thousands of donors have answered the call to donate in recent weeks to combat a significant drop in the blood supply, more donors are needed now to ensure the blood supply remains ready for those in need of lifesaving medical procedures.

In thanks for helping, all who come to give in February will receive a $20 Amazon.com Gift Card by email.

Details are available at RedCrossBlood.org/Heart.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities through Feb. 29:

Dentist and Civil Rights Activist, Dr. Lonnie Smith

It often takes courage to stand up for a principle. Because of people who do, the world starts to change. One Texas dentist, Dr. Lonnie Smith, changed the way Americans vote. A 1944 Supreme Court decision forced Texas and states across the country to change election laws.

Dr. Lonnie E. Smith was born in 1901 in Yoakum, a small community east of San Antonio. When he was still young, the family moved to the East Texas community of Providence near Palestine. He graduated from Providence High School in 1919, a rare achievement in a time when many communities still did not have high schools.

Smith enrolled at what is now Prairie View A&M University where he nurtured his interests in the sciences. In 1921, he enrolled at the Meharry School of Dentistry in Tennessee, one of the few dental schools in the South that would accept African-American students at the time. He received his dental degree in 1924. After graduation, he married Janie Mae Dunn, and the two settled in Galveston. In 1929, after a few years of practicing with Dr. E. A. Etta, Smith and his wife moved to Houston where Smith would open a new practice. By any measure, Smith was successful and was a respected, civic-minded citizen.

In 1940, the primary election was held in July. Elections for U. S. Senate, all statewide offices, legislative positions, and a host of Harris County offices were being held. On Election Day, Smith went to his polling location to vote. However, an election judge, S.E. Allwright, refused to let him vote because he was black.

The primary election had only been established in Texas in 1905. In 1923, the state legislature passed a law declaring political parties to be voluntary associations and ordering them to establish rules of operation and membership. Conservative leaders, following other state party organizations in the South, ordered that only white voters could participate in the primary, what came to be called the "white primary."

The South was entirely a one-party region. All political power rested with the Democratic Party. But the party was beset by numerous competing factions, from reform-minded liberals to die-hard conservatives and everything in between. The only primary election in Texas at the time was the Democratic Party. While the Republican Party did exist, it often did not bother to offer candidates for many elections and never held a primary.

In Texas in the 1930s, Republican candidates often received less than 10 percent of the vote in statewide contests. In the 1940 gubernatorial election, when Smith was attempting to vote, Democratic nominee W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel won re-election in the November general election with 94 percent of the vote. As a result, all political races in the state were decided in the Democratic Primary.

After the stinging rebuke at the polls, Smith began talking with civil rights officials with the NAACP, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. NAACP lawyers had been going across the South challenging segregation laws and voting restrictions to undermine the Jim Crow system. A team led by future U. S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall agreed to take Smith's case and filed the case Smith v. Allwright in federal court in 1942.

By 1944, the case reached the Supreme Court. Marshall argued that Smith's rights were denied because of the white primary arrangement.

In April, the Supreme Court issued an 8-1 decision agreeing with Marshall that race restrictions were a violation of Smith's right to equal treatment under the law as espoused in the Constitution. The white primary was thus unconstitutional, and the primary would now be open to all races in all states.

Because of the Supreme Court ruling, the nascent civil rights movement was energized. Marshall's strategy of using the court system to undermine the obstacles facing minorities began to prove to be successful. He later considered this his most important case, one setting the stage for other civil rights rulings. Within 10 years, segregation in the schools would be declared unconstitutional. Within 20 years, voting restrictions for minorities were eliminated under federal law. The number of registered African-American voters increased rapidly, from 200,000 across the South in 1940 to 800,000 in 1948.

By the 1960s, most African-American and Hispanics were registered to vote in the South. Millions of citizens now had the ballot available to them. all starting with Smith's case.

As for Smith, he was content to live a quiet life. He voted faithfully in each election afterward. He continued his dental practice and was active in local civic organizations and civil rights organizations. He would regularly serve as a Democratic precinct committeeman, helping others exercise their own right to vote.

Smith died at his home in Houston in March 1971 at the age of 70.

Williams recorded a double-double with 12 points and 10 rebounds.”

The Western Hills coach said he is very pleased with how the regular season has unfolded for the Cougars.

“We are very happy to accomplish our goal of making playoffs,” Dunson said. “It has been something we have been striving for since the end of last season. Our guys were hungry the whole off season and I'm so proud of their hard work and effort it took to clinch a spot.”

The Cougars were vying for third place with Benbrook heading into this week, and Bobcats coach Blake Mendez said his team has to keep working.

“We're pleased with the position we're in, but not satisfied at all,” Mendez said. “We know we still have work to do. I think when you get satisfied, you stop working on what got you there. We know we can't stop working now.”

Benbrook defeated Carter-Riverside 76-12 on Friday, and Mendez said it was a good win for his team.

“We played really well against Riverside,” Mendez said. “They were a little short handed, so we were able to get after them early, and we kept our foot on the pedal.”

Logan Goins led the way for Benbrook with 8 points and 10 rebounds and 3 blocked shots.

On the pitch, Benbrook lost to Diamond Hill-Jarvis in a shoot out on Friday, and coach Jared Spoon said it was a tale of two halves.

“It was a tough game,” Spoon said. “We had a 2-0 lead at the half and couldn't keep things together for the second half. A couple of really bad calls led to frustrations on the field, which led to yellow cards, which led to substitutions, which ultimately led to us giving up two goals.”

Spoon said Giovannie Jimenez, “played a tough and smart defense throughout and stepped in as keeper in a pinch when we needed him.”

Benbrook will play Eastern Hills tomorrow night, and Spoon said his team will not take the Highlanders lightly.

“Eastern Hills has always been a formidable threat, so we will have to be at our best and take them very seriously,” Spoon said.

Over at Western Hills, the Cougars defeated Dunbar 9-1 on Friday night, and coach Matt Collins said his team was firing on all cylinders offensively.

“The Dunbar game went well,” Collins said. “We helped ourselves out by scoring a goal in the first minute. Scoring that early takes a lot of pressure off the team. From there we found the goal 8 more times. All the guys got a good chance to play.”

Cesar Hinojosa, Bryan Vazquez, Wilfredo Vazquez and Omar Banda all played well for Western Hills. “They are our youngest players,” Collins said. “It was great to see them play so well.”

Western Hills will play the Young Men's Leadership Academy tomorrow night, and Collins said he expects a tough game.

“YMLA gets better every year,” Collins said. “They always play hard. I hope we can come out and match their energy and effort. If we do, I like our chances.”
