Benbrook Council Action

July 6 Meeting

Review by John English

The Benbrook city council meeting held on July 6 was conducted as scheduled. Mayor Jason Ward called the meeting to order. An invocation was followed by the Pledge of Allegiance.

Time was then allowed for citizen comments on any agenda item, and resident Terry Roach approached the podium to ask what was the benefit of burying the city's powerlines other than aesthetics, a topic that would be addressed later in the meeting.

Minutes from the previous meeting held on June 15 were then approved unanimously among all members present.

The first item of the evening was to consider accepting the finance report ending on May 31.

Revenues for the General Fund for the month of May totaled $897,107, while year to date revenues were $21,707,875. Expenditures for May were $4,679,604, while year-to-date expenditures totaled $14,582,424.

For the Economic Development Corporation, revenues for the month of May were $177,839 and totaled $1,552,472 year-to-date, while expenditures were $31,124 for the month of May and totaled $604,242 year-to-date. (continued on page 3)

From the American Red Cross

Donors Needed in July to Prevent a Blood Shortage

The American Red Cross continues to see a concerning trend – blood donations are being sent to hospitals faster than they are coming in. The Red Cross has collected about 50,000 fewer blood donations than needed over the last two months. Donors are asked to make an appointment to give blood now to avoid a looming blood shortage.

To help head off a more serious situation, the Red Cross is teaming up with Warner Bros. Discovery for the 35th anniversary of Shark Week and the theatrical release of Meg 2: The Trench. The public is encouraged to celebrate a summer of sharks and help shore up the national blood supply by giving in July.

In thanks for helping, the Red Cross is offering several incentives to donors who come out to give blood or platelets in the coming weeks. Additionally, in response to the great need for blood, those who hurry in to help by coming to give July 1-16 will receive a limited-time bonus $15 gift card by email to a merchant of their choice.

• July 12-Aug 12: Those who come to give will be automatically entered for a chance to win a three-night New York getaway for two with a private shark dive adventure at Long Island Aquarium. Details are available at RedCrossBlood.org/Shark.

Student Athlete Spotlight: Bobcat Cameron McGuire

Benbrook wrestler Cameron McGuire finished off his senior season in strong fashion, qualifying for the state meet and finishing seventh overall in the 144-pound weight class. But what makes his story even more impressive is how far he came to reach that point.

Coach Wade Cribbs said McGuire's contribution to the Benbrook wrestling program is immeasurable.

"I'm extremely proud of Cameron's accomplishments," Cribbs said. "His work ethic has set the bar for what we want from our wrestlers. He has come so far, and we're so proud he represented us as a Bobcat Wrestler."

Cribbs said the most important thing that McGuire brought to the team during his tenure was hope.

"From his freshman year to his senior year, he became a whole new person," Cribbs said. "He showed all our athletes you can accomplish anything if you work hard."

McGuire, 18, said reaching the state tournament his senior year is something he will never forget.

"It felt amazing," McGuire said. "If I were to go back to my freshman year when I hadn't won a single match I wouldn't have believed I could make it this far. My goal was to really make that kid from my past happy and I definitely accomplished that."

That is correct—McGuire did not win a single match his freshman year.

McGuire said when he reflects back on his senior season, he is proud of how things unfolded for him, but even more of how far he has come.

"My goal was to medal at the state tour-namment," McGuire said. "I fell a little short, but I was very happy as I knew I had to shoot for the stars and aim for the moon to see the most improvement in myself."

McGuire said he hopes the legacy he leaves behind at Benbrook is that of perseverance, even when nothing seems to go right.

"The most interesting thing about my story is the fact that I didn't win a single match my freshman year and only weighed 95 pounds," McGuire said. "I would love to be used as an example by my coaches to inspire incoming wrestlers that no matter how unsuccessful you are currently, there's still so much potential inside of them that just needs to be brought out through discipline in themselves. I've grown so much both physically and skillfully and came out of high school as the most successful wrestler in Benbrook High School history."

The Benbrook grad said his fondest memory from his time at Benbrook has changed thanks to his senior season.

"Before my senior year I would have said having fun with the team at tournaments and in the hotels," McGurire said. "But in all honesty, nothing beats that moment I walked into the main room of the state tournament for the first time. It had felt like all my hard work had paid off as soon as I walked through those doors."

Council Action (continued from page 1)

For investments, the City of Benbrook had $53,101,156 invested, while the EDC had $7,073,495. The council accepted the finance report unanimously by all members present.

Next up was a report to consider approving an interlocal agreement with the City of Fort Worth to reclaim Lakeside Drive. According to the agenda, the City of Fort Worth is set to reclaim a portion of Lakeside Drive located between Winscott Road and Pecan Valley Drive.

Per the Interlocal Agreement, the City of Benbrook will pay for all costs to reclaim approximately 210 linear feet of Lakeside Drive that is located inside the City of Benbrook's municipal limits. City staff recommended that the council approve the Interlocal Agreement with the City of Fort Worth to reclaim Lakeside Drive for $35,626. The motion was approved unanimously by all members present.

Next was a proposal to revise the scope of work for the Benbrook Municipal construction project.

According to the agenda, this revised scope of work to the Benbrook Municipal Complex project includes all items necessary to bury the existing utility lines (Oncor, Charter and AT&T) beginning at the Southeast corner of Winscott Road and Mercedes Street and then running south along Winscott Road to the Southwest corner of the city's property where the lines will again become overhead. The total cost to bury the lines is $167,426.49. The motion was approved unanimously by all members present.

Time was then allowed for informal citizen comments.

Resident Morgan Register approached the podium and asked the council members what the City of Benbrook is known for, and then offered an idea of his own.

"It should be known for its great parks and future state park at that," Register said. "Traffic is already a concern on our congested 377, and having a state park in place of another development would ease congestion, while still encouraging recreation and economic activity in our city."

Register then pointed out that Tarrant County is the only major county in the state that does not have a state park, and proposed that Benbrook hold a public hearing for the creation of a state park in Benbrook.

Next, resident Lydia Hudson approached the podium and expressed concerns about the $167,426.49 being used for the revised scope of the Benbrook Municipal construction project.

Hudson suggested the funds might be better used for another code compliance officer, police officer or the local Animal Shelter.

Roach then approached the podium again and expressed his affection for the City of Benbrook, along with disappointment about the response he has received from certain government officials regarding his complaints about a prior incident in which he was detained by the Benbrook Police Department.

Time was then allowed for council member and staff comments, but there were none.

The meeting was then adjourned.

From the North Central Texas Council of Governments

NCTCOG Hosts Online Input Opportunity

The North Central Texas Council of Governments is hosting an online public input opportunity now through Aug. 8 to allow residents to learn more about transportation initiatives and participate in the regional planning process. To submit comments and questions to NCTCOG, email nctcogJuly23@publicinput.com or visit www.publicinput.com/nctcogJuly23, where you can also watch the presentations.

Each year, NCTCOG works to approve and update the Regional 10-Year Plan. This plan identifies major projects to be implemented in the region. The public input opportunity will provide a project list from Fiscal Year 2024 to Fiscal Year 2033 for review and comment. Air quality improvement is an important focus for NCTCOG, with the region classified as nonattainment for ozone. Working closely with regional partners, NCTCOG develops and implements strategies, policies and programs to enhance air quality. In addition, there are periodic opportunities for public and private entities to compete for funding to reduce fleet emissions. Highlights of Dallas-Fort Worth fleet projects implemented using grant funds will be provided, as well as a list of current funding opportunities available to fleets.

An overview of the recently completed DFW Discovery Trail branding and wayfinding project will also be provided, including final branding recommendations.

NCTCOG's Community Gardens Program Guide provides information, resources and tools for cities and others to develop and implement community garden programs in their areas. An overview of this new initiative will be available.

Information will also be provided about the following initiatives and programs: Certification of Emerging and Reliable Transportation Technology (CERTT) Program: Round 2 results, Walk to School Day promotion 2023, Engine Off North Texas and Mobility 2045: 2022 Update administrative revisions.

For assistance with special accommodations or to request printed copies of the information, contact Jackie Castillo at 817-695-9255 or jcastillo@nctcog.org.

About the North Central Texas Council of Governments:

NCTCOG is a voluntary association of local governments established in 1966 to assist local governments in planning for common needs, cooperating for mutual benefit and coordinating for sound regional development.

*NCTCOG's purpose is to strengthen both the individual and collective power of local governments and to help them recognize regional opportunities, eliminate unnecessary duplication, and make joint decisions. NCTCOG serves a 16-county region of North Central Texas, which is centered in the two urban centers of Dallas and Fort Worth. Currently, NCTCOG has 228 member governments including 16 counties, 169 cities, 19 school districts and 27 special districts. # How You Can Trim Expenses to Save for What Matters Most

Whether you’re saving to buy a home, putting money in your child’s college fund or just trying to cover higher costs for necessities, you may be looking for ways to keep more money in your wallet so you can spend on the things that matter most. And you’re not alone.

In fact, a recent national survey from Experian found that 66 percent of respondents are actively looking for ways to trim expenses from their monthly budget.

There is no better time than the present to get started. The basics of saving money lay a great foundation for stretching your dollars and taking control of your finances. This includes budgeting, paying off debt, establishing savings goals, automating savings and cutting back on unnecessary expenses.

However, you may not know there are other less obvious ways to keep more money in your wallet. Don’t leave money on the table, here are three creative ways to save more now:

• Shop around to save on monthly bills: Most people spend time shopping around for a new TV or other purchase to get the best price, but overlook the opportunity to save by comparing monthly bill providers. Experian has an auto insurance comparison shopping service that can help you potentially save up to $900 per year on your policy. The service provides you with multiple, tailored rates from up to 40 leading and well-established auto insurance carriers, allowing you to find a policy that meets your needs.

• Look for ways to maximize credit card rewards: You can save big and manage spending at no cost with the right credit cards and reward programs. To help you find the best card, whether you want cash back or no APR terms, Experian offers a free marketplace that leverages your financial information against lenders’ requirements to match you with tailored offers.

• Try negotiating rates: Negotiating monthly bills is crucial for finding extra savings. Take a look at your payment terms and plans to see if you can renegotiate for lower rates on expenses like cable or cell service. If you feel that calling service providers is tedious and time consuming, there are services that can help. A new feature available in a paid Experian CreditWorks Premium Membership negotiates lower rates on eligible monthly bills on your behalf so you can stop overpaying. Those who use this feature see an average savings of $263. If you’d like to negotiate directly with your provider, make sure you ask them about all the offers they are willing to extend to you so you know all your options and get the new, accepted offer in writing.

“Even when times aren’t tough, it is always good to practice budgeting and money-saving habits to position yourself in the best way possible before you need it,” said Andrea Woroach, a nationally recognized consumer finance and money-saving expert. “Tapping into these tools from Experian can help you save in ways you may not have been aware of and help you keep your finances on track now and in the future.”

There are more ways Woroach recommends to save, including reducing your monthly spend on debt by consolidating credit card debt to a 0% balance transfer card and avoiding impulse shopping by deleting payment and shipping details stored in online retail accounts, as well as unsubscribing from store emails. To be more strategic at the grocery store and cut wasteful purchases, you might also consider meal planning.

It’s always important to find ways to save. Leveraging available tools can help you get control of your expenses and keep more money in your wallet.

American Composer, Pianist, Arranger and Conductor -

Scott Bradley by Dr. Ken Bridges

Texas musician Scott Bradley was never widely known outside of the studio, but his music was the heart of some of the most iconic American cultural icons of the 20th century, most notably, the famed cartoon duo of Tom and Jerry.

Bradley was born in Russellville, Arkansas, in 1891. He developed a love of music early and taught himself. By the 1910s, he headed to Houston to put his musical talents to work. He found work as a conductor for orchestras and theaters throughout Southeast Texas as well as radio stations. At the same time, he continued to write his own music. Though he was a successful musician, Bradley still took lessons from more experienced musicians to fine-tune his own craft.

By the early 1920s, California was rapidly becoming the heart of the entertainment world. Bradley left Texas in 1926 to become a conductor for a Los Angeles radio station. In 1929, he was hired by The Walt Disney Studio as a staff musician. However, Walt Disney had a falling out with some of his staff in 1930. One of Disney's chief animators went to form his own cartoon studio for which Bradley worked for several years.

By the 1930s, the cartoon short feature had become a staple part of the moviegoing experience. Seeing the success of Disney and others with the growing popularity of animation, Metro-Goldwyn-Meyer Studios decided to form its own cartoon studio in 1937 to compete. Bradley was quickly hired to help provide the music.

In 1940, MGM animators William Hanna and Joseph Barbera created the Tom and Jerry cartoon, though they were originally named Jasper and Jinx. Bradley went on to write and conduct the large orchestras for the music in the 114 original cartoons made between 1940 and 1957.

Since Tom and Jerry almost never spoke, most of the stories relied on Bradley's music to set up and underline the different jokes, playful tensions, and transitions from one scene to the next. The physical humor and lack of dialogue helped make the cartoons immensely popular around the world as Bradley's music needed no translations.

One 1947 cartoon in particular, "The Cat Concerto," placed music at the center of the episode as Tom played a concert pianist whose piano happened to be Jerry's home. Jerry got his revenge against Tom by making it difficult for the desperate cat to finish. Thanks to Bradley's music direction, the cartoon won the 1948 Academy Award for Best Animated Short Film, the fourth consecutive Academy Award for Tom and Jerry.

Bradley also composed the musical score for the 28 Barney Bear cartoons made by MGM between 1939 and 1954. Bradley would also go on to provide the music for the 24 Droopy cartoons produced between 1943 and 1957 and the Screwy Squirrel cartoons made in the late 1940s.

In 1957, MGM closed its cartoon studio as part of a corporate restructuring effort. Though MGM would continue to produce cartoons, the large budgets were gone and an entirely new group of directors, animators, and musicians were hired. Bradley's contract was cancelled; and at the age of 65, he decided to retire.

In those nearly two decades of the first batch of Tom and Jerry cartoons, Bradley was part of a team that earned eleven Academy Award nominations and won eight Academy Awards for the cartoons. Overall, he composed 250 cartoon music scores.

Bradley died at his home in California in 1977 at the age of 85 as a new generation of youngsters discovered in television reruns the cartoons he helped bring to life. A compilation album of his musical scores from some of these cartoons was released in 2006.

Today, these cartoons continue to be seen on television and on video daily in homes around the world.
