Athlete Spotlight: Lady Cougar Areli Nunez

The Western Hills softball team finished second in district competition this past season and were led by seniors Areli Nunez, Lauren Beckham and Priscilla Rivers.

Coach Austin Valdez said all three girls contributed to the team in different ways, and Nunez was the sort of player that coaches love because of how she conducted herself.

“Areli was a hard worker and everything you could ask for in a teammate,” Valdez said. (continued on page 2)

Flag Retirement Ceremony Held

The ceremony for Disposal of Unserviceable Flags began in New York around Sept. 20-23, 1937. It is an integral part of an American Legion ritual. Americanism has been a part and continues to be one of the major programs within the American Legions.

The observance of proper respect for the Flag of our country and education of our citizenship is essential courtesy. It is fitting that flags which have been used, torn and tattered are condemned and destroyed by burning.

This is the official ceremony for destruction of unserviceable American Flags.

The American Legion Post 297 held their ceremony recently at the facility. Several individuals witnessed and participated in this solemn event.

The Western Hills senior was a first-team all-district and academic all-district selection.

"I was honestly super happy," Nunez said. "We may not have had the outcome we wanted or expected, but after all of our hard work, I truly believe it was a great way to end."

Nunez, 18, said she wanted to make a difference and set a good example this past season, two objectives she felt she accomplished.

"One of my top goals was to go into the season and give it my all," Nunez said. "I wanted to be able to reflect back on the season and see that I made a difference. I believe I did more than what I expected, leaving the underclassman and seeing them fall in love with the sport like I did just because they saw my passion for it proves it."

Nunez is headed to Lamar University where she hopes to study to become a Veterinarian and said earning a playoff berth this year was really special.

"To me, it meant more than second place or just another game," Nunez said. "To me, it was everything we had to go through. Those three-hour games, staying later because of practice, staying an extra hour even after late practices just to get better at the end was worth it. I believe me and the two other girls were the start to a growing sport at Western Hills."

Nunez was also a member of the WHHS band, where she is in the drum line, something she plans to continue to continue in college.

The Western Hills outfielder said looking back on the season as a whole, there is one thing in particular that stands out to her.

"My fondest memory will forever be getting hit by the softball right on the face minutes before our game started," Nunez said. "Being in the cage thinking 'I'm so ready for this game,' while soft tossing to my teammate and next thing I know I see the ball coming straight to my face. I'll never forget the look on Coach V's face as we showed him what had happened."

Valdez said Nunez will be missed and leaves some big shoes to fill.

"It was awesome to see everything they accomplished," Valdez said. "They really led this team and rose to the occasion when we needed them most."

Furry Friends Can Cause Distracted Driving: Here's How to Stay Safe

Summer road trip season is here! Whether your vacation plans include national parks, sandy beaches or major metro-polises, you may be thinking of bringing the entire family along, even your four-legged companions.

While we love having them near, dogs aren't always safe passengers. A recent poll commissioned by Selective Insurance, a leading home, auto and business insurance carrier, found that in the past 12 months, dogs caused a majority of drivers to be distracted on U.S. roadways.

The study, conducted online by The Harris Poll, found that of licensed drivers who recently (over the last 12 months) drove with their dogs, 91 percent admitted to interacting with them while driving, including interactions requiring the driver to take their hands off the wheel or eyes off the road, and 48 percent acknowledged that they are more distracted when their dog is in the vehicle than when it is not.

"We love our dogs. However, some of their behaviors in the car, such as sitting on drivers' laps, jumping between seats, or sticking their heads out the window, divert drivers' attention from operating a vehicle," said Scott Smith, vice president and director of Safety Management at Selective Insurance. "To help keep our roads safe, drivers need to minimize distractions. That means our beloved pet passengers should be restrained in the back seat, and if they need tending, drivers should first pull over to a safe place."

Some of the more hazardous behaviors that drivers engaged in while recently on the road with their dog include giving them food/treats/water (36 percent), taking a photo/video of their dog (27 percent) or holding them in place (23 percent) while driving. In addition, 40 percent of drivers who have ever driven with their dog confessed to various reckless driving behaviors as a direct result of having their dog in the vehicle, including swerving out of the lane (11 percent) and hard braking (13 percent).

This summer, as you head out with your dog on journeys near and far, help minimize driving distractions in your vehicle with these tips from Selective Insurance:

- Have your dog ride in the back seat and consider using a partition between the front and back seats.

- Use a dog seatbelt, safety harness or anchored crate to prevent distractions and provide your dog with some protection if there is an accident. A significant 70 percent of licensed drivers who recently drove with their dogs say their dogs were unrestrained in the vehicle. Yet, 82 percent of drivers who recently drove with their dogs agree that having an unrestrained dog in a moving vehicle can distract the driver. Not using a restraint is risky and could put you in violation of the law. Some states have animal restraint laws for vehicles to help keep drivers safe and focused. However, only 24 percent of licensed drivers who recently drove with their dogs say they are very familiar with such laws in their state. That's compared to 34 percent who say they didn't know these laws existed.
- Plan ahead and identify rest stops along your route so you and your dog can take a break. If you need to make an unplanned stop, avoid the side of the road and instead look for a quiet parking lot. Use these occasions to give your dog food, a little exercise and most importantly in summer, plenty of water.

For additional survey findings, along with tips to keep roadways safe and K-9 companions secure, visit Selective.com. For survey methodology, visit selective.com.

"More pets in homes, especially with the introduction of the pandemic puppy, means more Americans than ever may be hitting the roads with their pooch on road trips this summer. Drivers should understand the risks associated with taking them along for the ride," said Smith.

1 were then approved unanimously among all members present.

The first item of the evening was a presentation by the planning and zoning commission to adopt an ordinance rezoning approximately 81 acres of land out of the T.G. Zachary Survey, Abstract 1759 from “SD” Suburban District To “CPD” Multiple-Family Planned Development District, allowing an 18.5-acre multi-family development, primarily consisting of two-family dwellings, and preserving the remaining 62 acres.

The property is generally located 1,000 feet north of Veterans Parkway along the frontage road east of I.H. 820

“This involves an undeveloped parcel of land North of our community,” Assistant City Manager Jim Hinderaker said.

A future land use map revealed that the land would include a flood way, where development is not permitted, a low density residential section, which supports single-family development up to 6.25 dwelling units per acre, as well as a high density residential, which supports apartments and other high density residential development between 12.5 to 25 dwelling units per acre.

The rezoning ordinance would establish a planned development zoning district using the “C” Multiple-Family District as the base zoning district, but with more restrictive development standards and primary building types limited to two-family dwellings, it would also set a maximum density of the developable area to 12.5 dwelling units per acre and would set the maximum overall density as approximately 2.8 units per acre.

Finally, it would also limit residential living development to property located primarily outside of the 100-year FEMA flood plain, establish regulations which include enhanced landscaping and tree preservation standards, increased required front, side and rear building setbacks and reduced maximum height standards, allow for and establish development regulations for a private trail system in the preservation area and it conforms with the Future Land Map use and other elements of the City's Comprehensive Plan.

A Public Hearing followed the presentation, but there were no comments.

The plan was approved by all council members present.

Time was then allowed for citizen comments, but there were none.

Time was then allowed for council member and staff comments, and Marshall briefly paid tribute to former mayor Gaylon Wayne Wilson who passed away on June 10.

The meeting was then adjourned

Most Decorated Texan of WWI, Marcelino Serna by Dr. Ken Bridges

The generation that fought World War I is now gone, but their legacy of bravery continues to live on.

One of those figures was Private Marcelino Serna of El Paso, one of the most highly decorated men of the war. As an immigrant, he fought with uncommon bravery to defend his new home.

Serna was born in April 1896 in a mining camp in Chihuahua, one of the Mexican states bordering Texas. His family was poor, but Serna wanted a better life for himself. In 1915, determined to find work, he left his family at the age of 19. He came to El Paso in search of the American Dream. Initially, he did not speak English but was able to find work on a railroad maintenance crew. From there, he found his way to Colorado where he worked as a farm hand.

In 1917, the United States entered World War I and initiated the first draft since the Civil War. Federal officials stopped Serna in Colorado and asked his draft status. In spite of his status as a Mexican citizen, Serna, like so many other immigrants, volunteered to fight for his new country. After three weeks of basic training at Camp Funston, Kansas, he was assigned to the 335th Infantry of the 89th Division and sent to France.

In France, his unit found itself in the middle of fierce battles, some of the worst faced by American units. German assaults were relentless. Casualties were high. Serna and the men of his unit fought on. On Sept. 12, 1918, his unit was pinned down by intense machine gun fire. Twelve troops were killed. Serna volunteered to scout ahead to find a way to knock out the German positions. He crept alone until he reached the machine gun, threw four grenades at them, killing six. He captured eight others and returned to his unit. Two weeks later, he followed a German sniper to the enemy trenches and laid down fire. He killed 26 German soldiers and captured the remaining 24.

For his actions, he received the Distinguished Service Cross, the second-highest medal in the army. He was personally decorated by Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces. Marshal Ferdinand Foch, commander of the French forces, awarded him the Croix de Guerre, France's highest award. The Italian army also honored him for his bravery. He was the first Hispanic ever awarded the Distinguished Service Cross. When army officials discovered that he was a citizen of Mexico, the army offered to send him back to Mexico as a hero. Serna declined, preferring to stay with his fellow soldiers and help his adopted country fight on to final victory.

He received two Purple Hearts for injuries under fire. In November 1918, just days before the end of the war, he was shot in the legs by a German sniper. He returned home from the war as one of the most highly decorated Texans of World War I.

In May 1919, Serna was given an honorable discharge and left the army. He married in 1922, a long marriage that produced six children. He officially became a U.S. citizen in 1924. He took a series of various jobs before settling in El Paso and working at a canning factory. Not long afterward, he began working at El Paso's Fort Bliss as a civilian worker in the quartermaster's office. Some time after the opening of the William Beaumont General Hospital at Fort Bliss, Serna took a job working at the facility. He spent many years working as a plumber, still helping his fellow soldiers by keeping the hospital running, before his retirement in 1961. He remained active in his church and the local Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The only Hispanic to receive the Medal of Honor during World War I was Private David Barkley of Laredo, and one of only three Texans to be so awarded. Barkley died on Nov. 9, 1918, two days before the end of the war, when he drowned while completing a scouting mission against the German lines. He was only 19. In spite of Serna's actions and numerous efforts by politicians and community organizations, he never received the Medal of Honor during his lifetime.

Serna died at his home in El Paso in 1992 at the age of 95. He was buried with full military honors. In 1995, Texas Congressman Ron Coleman proposed legislation to posthumously award Serna with the Medal of Honor. The measure did not pass.

In 2017, however, the port of entry at Tornillo, just southeast of El Paso, was renamed in Serna's honor. Another congressional attempt to honor Serna with the Congressional Medal of Honor in 2021 failed.

In 2022, State Sen. Cesar Blanco of El Paso pushed through a measure that gave Serna the Texas Legislative Medal of Honor, one of only 16 Texans ever so honored.
